Having sold my drug business, it is my desire to have all those indebted to me to call at once and settle their accounts either by cash or bankable note. I hope I may not be compelled to resort to severe measures.

T. S. HINDE.

Colonel Richard Dalton.

This gentleman was greeted with a large and appreciative audience in this city on Wednesday evening of this week. He came to talk on the issues in Missouri this campaign. The meeting was held in the court house, and was presided over by Judge O'Fallon. The male quartette, composed of Doctor Proud, Roy Kunkel, and George and William Schulte, and their efforts were greatly appreciated by the large audience.

Music was furnished by the "Boys Band" and they infused life and spirit in every number they rendered.

Judge O'Fallon introduced the speaker, and after the usual introductory remarks, he at once "waded in" upon the platform of the Missouri Democracy, which he characterized as basely false in every one of its parts, and the men who drafted it knew its assertions were false—its every part bore the ear marks and cloven foot of Dookery and Stone. He had come among us not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance. He spoke not from policy but from conviction. He believed the rank and file of the Democracy were honest and wanted clean government, and it was hard for them to break away from old political associations, but he begged of them to come to out from under the yoke of Seibertism, and help redeem the state. He spoke of how the Republicans helped repeal the disfranchisement acts thereby voting themselves out of power, and as charges of such serious character had been made against the Democratic party, he thought the party making the charges should be given an opportunity to investigate, and if they could not be sustained then they could be voted out of power two years hence—the Democratic party could not afford to rest under such serious charges.

He showed the falsity of many of their charges in their platforms, especially those relating to taxation giving official figures to show how the farmers had been discriminated against, and how corporations had been favored; how they had collected $800,000 annually in excess of what had been collected during Republican control. He exposed the rottenness proposed in the school fund amendment, reading from the session acts to prove that the amendment if adopted will impose not only a perpetual but a non reducible debt upon the taxpayers of the state. He cited instances how the party in control had trampled the constitution of the state under its feet, by squandering the state school fund, etc., and that we had had no constitutional government in Missouri for the past 15 years. How the farm lands had been increased 232 per cent. against an increase of corporate companies of only 27 per cent.

Mr. Dalton's remarks were frequently punctuated with rounds of applause, and his coming was one of the best political treats that has come to our people since Charles Burton's visit in 1892. The meeting was closed by the quartette singing "That Kentucky Babe." The colonel left Thursday morning for Savannah, where he talked to the people there in the afternoon and to the St. Joseph people in the evening.

Delegations were present from Maitland, Forest City, Forbes, Hickory and Nedaway townships.

—Henry Fields has bought a farm from George Furbach, 120 acres, northeast of Forbes.

—Fred W. Hoffman and wife have returned from the St. Louis fair, after a week's absence. Seth Curtis and mother have also returned from a ten days' visit at the same place, taking in the fair, and visiting her daughter, Mrs. Eugene McFarland.

—Charley Deffenbaugh while working on the new residence of J. H. Lark, Wednesday of this week, October 15, had a slight stroke and fell from the building, breaking his left arm just above the wrist and fracturing a bone just below the elbow. Dr. Proud reduced the fracture and Charley is now able to be around, but will not drive any nails for a few weeks.

—Our school is progressing nicely with Miss Fannie Dulany, as teacher, but the roads have been very bad for the children to get to the school house, especially the country road from the school house to the river, where there is several low places, in which after big rains the water and mud is a foot deep, and the children have to wade to get to school. There has not been a grader on it for four years, and to make it still worse, some of our farmers are planting and farming the road to the center.
